In the last couple of years one of the top New Year's resolutions has been to save more and get a handle on your finances. Unlike a gym membership and the stamina to stay on the stair master, saving money takes a stick-to-it-ness that is all about creating systems and following through.

1/9/12 Savings Calendar (5:00 p.m., 1:36)

Maureen O'Boyle reports on an idea that helps families save money... "we think it's time to set up a 'savings Calendar.'" It's simple and could save your family a lot of money. All you need is a simple calendar, you could even set it up on your smart phone. I found several web sites that list the best time to buy things in the new year..we've pulled info from a lot of them and found other money saving reminders you don't want to forget in tonight's stretching your dollar.

1/23/12 Freezing Leftovers (5:00pm, 1:37)

So what do you do with your leftovers? I try not to waste food...but I am sometimes not so happy with how well they freeze. We spend time and money on our food, so let's make every morsel count! Maureen O'Boyle reports during her Stretching Your Dollar segment.

1/25/12 Geithner in Charlotte (6:00pm, :39)

Treasury Secretary Tim Geithner told us today the future of this economy depends on Green Energy, and Siemens is a good example. But Geithner says there's one problem we must overcome. We need to also make it easier for Americans to get the skills that they need to compete for those jobs. Geithner also talked about the state of Bank of America in Charlotte.

1/27/12 Will Mayor Foxx run for Governor? (5:00am, 6:00am, 12N, 5:30pm, 7pm, :51)

2/6/12 Wardrobe Makeover (5:00pm, 1:23)

It's that time of year when fashion magazines are talking trends for spring. But if you're like a lot of women your budget isn't going to include a new wardrobe with the season change. I asked a stylist who worked on the Bravo TV Housewives series to take us inside a closet and show us how to take what we have and freshen it up for spring. It's tonight's stretching your dollar.

2/13/12 APPS that Save (5:00pm, 1:31)

2/27/12 Pets & Vets (5:30pm, 1:01)

3/3/12 (5:00am, 6:00am, 1:01)

Local veterinarians say they're not seeing as many pets for regular checkups...because of the economy. Not only is it bad for your pet...but vets say by not getting your cat or dog checked over...it may cost you more in the long run. A Bayer Veterinary Care study found 24 percent of pet owners agreed that routine checkups for their animals are unnecessary. The same study finds an even higher percentage of dog and cat owners feel their pet doesn't need to be vaccinated every year. But while checkups have been down, Dr. Jay Hreiz (Her-eyes) at Ebenezer Animal Hospital in Rock Hill says he's seen a rise elsewhere.

3/14/12 CMS Budget Cuts (11:00pm, 1:52)

CMS teachers struggling to make ends meet. This YouTube video of teachers talking about how they work two, even three jobs to pay their bills...has gone viral. Interim Superintendent Hugh Hattabaugh wants to give them a raise, but says his discussions with County Manager Harry Jones on the issue have not been positive. Hattabaugh just presented a one-point-one-nine billion dollar budget proposal for C-M-S. It includes a two percent raise for teachers, but to pay for it the county would have to raise taxes...something that is unlikely. But Hattabaugh says if teachers don't get a raise it's going to affect the quality of education.

3/31/12 Lynx Blue Line Plans (5:00am, 6:00am :27)

Light rail trains should be rolling from Uptown to University City by March of 2017. The 9-point-4 mile extension of the rail line was scheduled to start running in 2016...but the Federal Transit Administration recommended pushing the timeline back because of the economy. Once its complete, the trip from Uptown to the U-N-C campus will take 22 minutes.

PUBLIC SAFETY

1/1/12 Ugly App Warning (5:00am, 6:00am 1:20)

An App available at the Apple Store makes WBTV cyber expert, Theresa Payton, angry... For 99 cents you download the app to your phone - take a picture - put it through the facial recognition software - and it will evaluate how ugly the person in the photo is and add a snide comment...."and then give you easy access to with one click upload it to your favorite spot on the internet...this takes cyberbullying to a whole new level - I want parents and teachers to know its out there so you can have that conversation with kids that this is wrong - should never be used - not funny."

1/5/12 Safe Cell Phone Use (5:00pm, 1:10)

WBTV recently reported on a recommendation from the N-T-S-B - to ban cell phones all together in the car. Our cyber expert says it's too late for that. 1/22/12 (5:00 a.m., :59)

Kristen Miranda (WBTV Consumer Reporter) and Cyber Turf Safety expert Theresa Payton explain a new term: It is "typosquatting" or typosquatters - there is a whole group of mean people doing it on the web - They take advantage of your typo - to squat on a website - and try to drive traffic to them. Here's an example: "you accidentally type in wamat instead of walmart and what do you know there happens to be a business there with that domain name that looks a little bit like walmart." Ways to keep you protected & avoid typosquatters recommended.

2/6/12 Possessed Oven (11:00pm, 2:41)

An appliance seemingly possessed. When you hear a local mother describe what happened to her -- you would have thought she was losing her mind. It turns out it was her oven/range that had developed a mind of its own. And the risk to her family was very real.

2/10/12 Furnace Inspections (5:30pm, 1:25)

3/6/12 Gas Scams to Look Out For (11:00pm, 1:58)

Now here's some welcome news -- For the first time in 27 days the national average for a gallon of gas has actually dropped. According to Triple-A, prices dropped three tenths of a penny to 3-76. But there's something else you need to be aware of... scam artists are trying to make a quick buck off your hard earned money. There are ads online for products like fuel-line magnets and liquid additives all promising to make your car run better. The Better Business Bureau says don't buy it -- no magical cheap gadgets make your gas last longer.

3/7/12 Eyes on Your Address Book (5:00pm, 1:08)

3/11/12 (5:00am, 1:08)

A viewer we profiled has everything saved in her Smart Phone, all of her contacts, etc. What she didn't realize - is how easy it is for people she doesn't know to access that information. "it doesn't make me feel secure." "it's not right." Cyber expert Theresa Payton says one study shows 11 percent of the most popular apps are snooping - "we're surmising its marketing - who are you connected to - who is in your network." Some don't warn you at all - "people need to be upset this was happening - you never gave them permission to be in your address book."

3/19/12 How are Teens Getting K2? (4:00pm, 5:30pm, 1:28)

These little packets may be illegal, but they're still causing big problems. Dr. Charles Bregier is the medical director at Presbyterian Urgent Care. He says it's not unusual for teenagers to end up in the ER here in Charlotte after an encounter with K2, or synthetic pot. But now that K2 isn't quite so easy to find on store shelves...how are kids getting their hands on it? As it turns out, teens are finding these products online.

SOCIAL: HUMAN SERVICES

Quentin was 8 when he found an old beat up piano on the curb... He dragged it home... And taught himself how to make it sing. "To me it was such a big treasure... And to me it was something I knew I was gonna be able to learn from." He knew nothing about music or chords...

1/13/12 Dog Meds Pharmacy (5:00pm, 1:16)

1/15/12 (5:00 a.m., 1:16)

Sometimes our pets take more medication on a regular basis than we do. Monthly heart worm prevention - along with something to keep the fleas off - not to mention whatever they need to treat what ails them. Consumer reporter Kristen Miranda found a less expensive alternative - we're all pet owners and I didn't realize this was an option.

1/25/12 Word of the Week: Pinterest (5:00pm, :30)

Now your word of the week - Pinterest. A highly addictive website - pin - like push-pin - mashed with interest. "anything you love to do you can go out there - and find communities and interests - post things up you like to do - if you love to travel - and you say you want to see the best rock climbing trips around the globe there's a group for that."

1/26/12 Noodle Experiment (10:00pm, 1:19)

WBTV Reporter Kristen Miranda tests the Oodles of Noodles claim of 32 feet of noodles per pkg. When stretched out across the floor, indeed they only got to 30 feet, NOT 32 feet. Not the most scientific experiment, to say the least.

1/30/12 Problems with Siri (6:00pm, 1:21)

People are spending an awful lot of time playing around with Siri...but what most of them don't know is they are using up an unprecedented amount of the so-called wireless data skyway. That's right...Siri has a secret. A study published this month shows that Siri uses twice as much data as a plain iPhone 4...nearly three times as much as the 3g...and far more than other smartphones...which actually use a lot themselves. Now...cellphone networks...they have limits....there's only so much to go around. And when those networks become congested, all carriers are affected. Calls are dropped, Internet access slows.

2/14/12 Fork Diet (6:00am, 7:00pm, 1:34)

We're On Your Side with health news...Keeping fit with a fork? It really is as simple as it sounds... A new French eating technique promises to melt the pounds and keep you from filling up... 2/15/12 Problem with Circumcision (11:00pm, 2:04)

2/16/12 (6:00am, 2:04)

A Woman claims a doctor botched her son's circumcision. He's 3-months old and still recuperating from the procedure he had as a newborn. The procedure was done at a doctor's office in Gastonia. WBTV did not name the office because there is no evidence of wrongdoing. But the victim's mother told us she is looking into filing a lawsuit.

2/20/12 DNA Diet (11:00pm, 2:05)

Could the answer to losing weight be in your DNA? Consumer reporter Kristen Miranda put the DNA diet to the test to see if knowing what your made of....can help you shed the pounds.

2/21/12 Patient Advocacy Website (6:00am, 1:21)

Patient Action... The website that encourages you the patient to use your own voice to get the medical care you need and get it right. The site can pair you up with a professional advocate. The goal in this partnership is to take the hassle and confusion out of medical care.

3/9/12 Hot Sauce Boy (4:00pm, 1:23)

3/11/12 (5:00am, 1:23)

While most teenagers are busy playing video games and texting friends, one local teen is busy building his future, right from his parents' kitchen. 13-year-old Nolan Bebbler was sitting in a restaurant one day and picked up a bottle of hot sauce. He looked at the ingredients and thought he could do better. Kristen Hampton has more about this entrepreneur.

3/16/12 iPads in Classroom (6:00pm, 1:18)

This robot was created by students in this Project Based Science class at A.L. Brown High School. Senior Jared Devlieger runs it using a smartphone and an ipad. And if it's the job of schools to prepare a smarter workforce for a high tech economy, this would seem to be pretty good idea. And while this is not a special needs class, it does show the benefits students get using the notebook computer.

3/20/12 Winthrop President Retiring (12N, :32)

The president on Winthrop University says he's going to retire, but not for another year. This is a look at Dr. Anthony DiGiorgio speaking at school in Rock Hill several years ago. This morning, DiGiorgio said he wants to experience life outside of academics. He also said he feels comfortable retiring now that the school's state funding is stabilizing thanks to a recovering economy. DiGiorgio will step down at the end of the 2012-2013 school year. The school is forming a search committee and hopes to name a replacement by then.

WBTV EDITORIALS, 1Q 2012:

"Speak Out" is an expression of opinion from the Editorial Board of WBTV, and is presented by General Manager, Nick Simonette. WBTV's Speak Out Editorials air two-times per week in various Newscasts.

WBTV Speak Out: 2011 Year in Review

As we wrap up another year, let's review some of the local topics that warranted discussion. Schools continue to be a major cause for concern. We looked at the dire budget cuts projected, then wondered where a surplus of funds came from. We said "Goodbye" to Dr. Gorman and "Hello" to a new School Board, challenging them to turn things around. We welcomed the DNC's choice of Charlotte as its Convention host. But were disappointed that more jobs were not filled locally. We wondered about lax security at the airport... Questioned high water rates when we've been conserving water... Called for revamping state vehicle inspections... And reminded advocates of toll roads that we already pay for these roads with our taxes. We looked at Bank of America's tarnished image... Advocated community service for unemployment benefits... And hoped our new District Attorney could change a system that puts too many criminals back on the streets. But there are many things to celebrate in our community: Habitat for Humanity's 1000th home... The opening of Charlotte's Ronald McDonald House... And the local vets who created "Purple Heart Homes." We welcomed the CIAA Basketball Tourney back to town... Thanked the "Men Who Care Global" for making a difference... And saluted those who joined the Komen Race for the Cure. And, as always, we asked YOU to get involved... to help your kids at school and at home... to write your politicians... and, of course, to vote – no matter how "minor" the election. For 2012, we encourage YOU to "Speak Out" – say what's on your mind. We'll continue to tell you what's on ours.

WBTV Speak Out: The Right Education for Real Jobs

Higher education... It's always been the main path to success. But in today's economy, some degrees just don't translate into the kinds of jobs they used to. Maybe it's time for students and parents to consider new educational directions. Degrees that translate to real jobs... ones that pay quite well. Now here are just a few opportunities we've found in our area... Siemens Energy just unveiled its new state-of-the-art plant here in Charlotte. It's the most advanced gas turbine facility in the world. Over the past year, they've created 700 full-time jobs, with 400 more to come. To make sure they have enough skilled workers, Siemens has partnered with Central Piedmont Community College and UNC Charlotte to design classes for their factory and engineering jobs. In Rock Hill, the Applied Technology Center just received a $50,000 grant to buy new training equipment. They teach high school students how to sand, buff and paint cars. When they graduate, they'll have trained on the same equipment body shops are currently using. Skilled painters and auto-body repair technicians can make 70 to 80 thousand dollars a year. And just outside Rock Hill in Catawba, Super Metals is looking for welders and filters. The American Welders Society says the pay range for these jobs runs from 37 to 87 thousand dollars a year. These are just a few examples. But the bottom line is that career opportunities still do exist. You just might have to look in a different direction.

WBTV Speak Out: Gaston Schools' Smart Move

To close a school or leave it open? That is the question the Gaston County school board just answered. This editorial is not about trashing the board for placing three schools on the chopping block. Instead, we're applauding the school board for the way it handled such an emotional issue. We thought it was smart the Gaston County school district did NOT to take a page from the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school district. When CMS closed several schools, their decision resulted in confusion, drama and, sadly, arrests. Gaston County learned from that infamous episode. The district in Gaston County did see protests and vigils... and parents spoke out – which was expected. But we also saw Gaston overload the community with information on the reasons for the closures and stick to that message. We were also impressed the district gave the community options to deal with the issues the system is facing. School closures weren't the only thing being considered. The superintendent has said this is not all about saving money, but more importantly, how to run a more efficient school district. Efficiency includes good communication with the community you serve. In the future, we hope the CMS board takes a page from Gaston's playbook when difficult decisions need to be made.

WBTV Speak Out: Chief Rodney Monroe Report Card

When Rodney Monroe began his job as Charlotte's Police Chief in 2008, we were optimistic. He had an impressive resume in Richmond, and we hoped his successes there would translate to Charlotte. We also said we would continue to evaluate how the Chief and his department are performing. So far, so good. The latest statistics show crime in Charlotte dropped by 7 percent. Also there were 55 homicides in 2011 – the lowest number in 23 years. 96 percent of those homicides have been cleared, well above the national average of 69%. Chief Monroe attributes this success to intensive investigation efforts, a good relationship with the new District Attorney, and the community coming forward with information. He says making an arrest within 72 hours sends a strong message to prospective criminals. We applaud the hard work of both leaders and officers on the beat. On the flip side, the issue of the Chief's missing college diploma remains. By not going after it, he's showing he doesn't think a diploma is necessary for success. We think it's the principle of the thing. A valid degree IS a requirement for his position. We think it's high time Chief Monroe put this to rest by finishing his coursework. It's a shame to have this "Incomplete" still hanging over his head.

WBTV Speak Out: North Carolina Gas Tax

Congratulations, North Carolina legislators. You've brought us some new national notoriety. We now have the sixth highest gas tax in the country. We have one question... "What were you thinking?" Drivers are now paying 40-cents per gallon in gas taxes, which is a new record high. And the timing couldn't be worse. At the same time you added four cents a gallon with state taxes, the Federal government took away an ethanol tax break worth close to a five cents a gallon. Add problems in the Persian Gulf into the mix, and you've got a perfect formula for financial hardship. So, what can people do? If you live anywhere close to the state line, head to South Carolina to fill up. The total state gas tax in South Carolina is 16.8 cents per gallon...making them the 4th lowest in the nation. Now, not all North Carolina lawmakers are happy with the increase. The House voted in November to cap the tax at 35 cents for the next six months. But the Senate didn't take any action on the bill, saying it wasn't the right time to consider the change. Well maybe it's the "right time" for our Senators to talk to the people they serve. In a tough economy, when so many people are out of work... you've just hit those who can least afford it right in their wallets.

WBTV Speak Out: Teachers Pay Raise

Imagine this: a pay raise for teachers. That's something they haven't heard in several years. It's almost foreign to them. Charlotte-Mecklenburg School District's interim superintendent wants to give all CMS employees a three percent raise. He needs about $30 million extra in the budget to pay for it. Now given these still uncertain economic times, we're not sure where the money will come from. But if any funds ARE available, we say "teachers, bus drivers, cafeteria workers and librarians should come FIRST." We believe the rest of the six-figure salary administrators can wait. It is much easier to survive in tough times when you make more than 100 thousand dollars a year, as opposed to the salaries teachers and other staff have been making. Many have no choice but to work 2 and 3 jobs just to make ends meet. In addition to grading papers and preparing lesson plans, your child's teacher may also be a waitress, working at the airport, or working in retail. To make matters worse, some teachers are forced to dip into their own pockets to purchase supplies. We hope CMS finds or gets the money to give teachers a pay hike. They deserve it. And wouldn't it be nice if the six-figure salary CMS folks would get together and say "Hey, don't worry about us...just get the money to give teachers a raise." That'll be the day. If you feel the same way we do, encourage your representative to put teachers first. A three percent increase isn't much, but hopefully it can be a down payment for better pay days ahead.

WBTV Speak Out: Black History Month

Here are some names you probably recognize: Rosa Parks – a well-known icon in the civil rights movement. Dizzy Gillespie – world-renowned trumpet player. And with the recent release of the movie "Red Tails," more people than ever now know the story of The Tuskegee Army – America's first black military aviators. But, have you heard of North Carolina Congressman George Henry White? Professional golfer Charlie Sifford? Or Sarah Mae Flemming Brown? Her federal lawsuit helped desegregate public transportation across America. The Carolinas are home to many important African-American pioneers. That's why WBTV is proud to bring you Black History Month vignettes throughout February. All the stories are also available on our website...WBTV dot com. WBTV Speak Out: "No!" to Sales Tax Increase

"Dead on Arrival..." That's what North Carolina senate leaders are calling Governor Perdue's latest proposal for a sales tax increase. And we think it should be. Granted, North Carolina and other states will suffer when federal stimulus money runs out after the current school year. But where does that federal stimulus money come from? Well, you and me the taxpayer. We can't see further dampening our already depressed economy with yet another tax increase. Locally, we're still at about 10% unemployment. Many of us haven't seen a raise in years. This three-quarters-of-a-cent tax increase would cost each of us an extra $10-15 a month – money we then don't have for food, clothing, or utility bills. The Governor feels this is "a fight worth having." But if education is THAT important, why the great "shell game"? Remember when the education lottery was first proposed? Lottery revenue was supposed to supplement the state's general education budget, not replace it. Instead, it's allowed lawmakers to shift funds from that education budget to other pet projects. And even the sacred "education" lottery funds have been raided to help pay for highway construction and other, supposedly more vital, needs. If our students' education is THAT important, and we believe it is, then let's cut funding for other lower-priority projects. North Carolina citizens simply can't afford another burdensome tax.

WBTV Speak Out: CIAA Celebration

A famous sports association turns 100 years old this month. And we here in Charlotte are excited to be the backdrop for celebrating this huge accomplishment. The Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association -- better known as the C-I-Double-A -- came on the scene back in 1912. It's the oldest African-American athletic association in the nation. The league's post-season basketball tournament has been in Charlotte for the past six years, getting better every year. This conference has such a rich history -- a history we think that can inspire students to reach their highest potential. Now listen to this... A Former C-I-Double-A basketball player was named to the Olympic team in 2004...while other alums have gone on to play in the NBA and NFL, C-I-Double-A schools have also produced such noteworthy leaders as the first African-American to establish a billion dollar company... the first black mayor of Atlanta... the first black elected governor of Virginia... and the first black United States Ambassador to the United Nations. With that we can't wait to see what C-I-Double-A schools will offer the next century. We believe this tournament is very good for Charlotte. It pumps more than 44 million dollars into our local economy and raises millions for college scholarships. More importantly, it shows young people their dreams can come true and they can achieve greatness. So with that, "Happy Birthday" C-I-Double-A! We want you to celebrate many more with us right here in the Queen City.

WBTV Speak Out: Creativity Needed at NASCAR Hall of Fame

The Charlotte Regional Visitors Authority is waking up, and we say it's about time. Several years ago, the CRVA helped convince our local leaders to park millions of dollars of taxpayer funds in the NASCAR Hall of Fame. Then, it took over operations. The city-owned racing museum opened in May 2010, and the CRVA projected a profit of $800,000. Well, that didn't happen. Instead, the venue lost a whopping $1.4 million. During its second fiscal year, attendance dropped even more. Last month, new CRVA CEO Tom Murray made a rather overdue announcement: the CRVA's top priority will now be getting people inside the Hall of Fame. Recent history has proven, though, that the museum is not a steady draw on its own. So we've got some advice for Mr. Murray. Call Jeff Wise. Wise is Executive Director of the Whitewater Center, another taxpayer-dependant niche venture that struggled with finances. But Wise did something about it. He worked wonders, adding an array of activities that won't get you wet -- zip-lining, runs, even a wilderness survival class. He started hosting weddings, parties and festivals...screening movies and hiring bands. The Whitewater Center has become an incredibly creative place. And that is exactly what the Hall of Fame must do if it's ever going to get out of the red and stop bleeding taxpayers' money.

WBTV Speak Out: Foster Care Graduates at Johnson C. Smith University

Higher education...it can be a passport to a brighter future. But many children living in the foster care system, that dream can seem way out of reach. In fact, when some age out of foster care system, they are literally out on the streets...with nowhere to live, and no support system to help them transition to independent, successful lives. Johnson C. Smith University is doing something about that with their "Phasing Up to New Possibilities" program, under the leadership of university President, Dr. Ronald Carter. Last fall, the university broke ground on the site of their Foster Village Network Center, it's headquarters will be the renovated George E. Davis House, a historic African-American landmark, built back in 1895. In addition to offering educational opportunities to young people phasing out of foster care, the university's initiative will also give fifty to sixty of them a year-round place to live, financial assistance, academic advising, personal guidance and counseling. It's a holistic strategy that can turn lives around, and help those who too often fall through the cracks become productive members of our society. (The Johnson C. Smith University family) will show these young people that someone does care about them. They matter. We think that's important. We think it's something our whole community needs to get behind.

WBTV Speak Out: Vietnam Veterans Home Coming Celebration

It's never too late to welcome someone home. Many of us have had the opportunity to salute servicemen and women upon their return from recent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. Sadly, 40 years after the end of the Vietnam War, veterans of that conflict have felt nothing but a cold shoulder. But later this month, we'll have a chance to recognize those who proudly served their nation. The USO of North Carolina and the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters will host a Vietnam Veterans Homecoming Celebration at the Charlotte Motor Speedway on Saturday, March 31st. Free and open to all veterans, their families and the greater community, this all-day celebration will honor the Vietnam-era veterans, educate the public on the service of those in uniform, and provide vital assistance by Veteran Service Organizations to those in need. Like any celebration the day will be festive; featuring live entertainment, displays, demonstrations and military salutes. But mostly, it will just be a day where we can thank the vets for their service and remember those who paid the ultimate price for freedom's fight. If you can't make the event in person, you can still be a part of the celebration by tuning in to WBTV, as we'll have a live, hour-long program from the Speedway starting at 3pm.

WBTV Speak Out: New Blood in Government

Bob Dylan once famously wrote: "The times they are a-changin'." Well, that's true again on the political landscape of 2012....this year, as much as any other, because so many incumbents have decided not to seek re-election. We, the people, get to exercise one of our greatest privileges as American citizens – the right to vote. Unfortunately, too many of us waive that responsibility – whether from laziness, a feeling that we're "too busy," or the notion that "my one vote won't make a difference." We encourage you to stop making excuses. Every election is crucial in its own way. But don't head out to the polls unprepared. Now's the time to do your homework, some serious research. Get to know the candidates. See where they stand on issues that affect you and your family. Listen attentively to all the debates....ask questions and get feedback from others. If you prefer the status quo, well so be it. Vote that way. But if a new direction is truly what you want, you need to be informed before casting your vote. Positive change will not occur by randomly selecting unfamiliar names on your ballot. So, head to the polls this May and November and let your voice be heard, whether you like the incumbent or a new candidate seeking office. Most importantly, be a well-informed voter and elect the officials who will best represent you, your community, the Carolinas, and the United States of America.

48 HOURS MYSTERY

01/07/12

48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Family Affair" - a report on the 2008 murders of Philip Heidt and his son Carey Heidt, the shooting of Philip's wife, Linda Heidt, and the secret extra-marital affair of Carey's wife Robin with his brother Craig Heidt, who has been convicted of the murders of his father and his brother. The Heidt family lived in the small town of Springfield Georgia. Philip Heidt, a real estate developer was married to Linda. They had three sons, Chris, Craig and Carey. Carey became his father's business partner and married Robin. They seemed the perfect Southern family -- but Robin Heidt had been having an affair with her brother-in-law Craig Heidt, the self-described black sheep of the family. She even told her husband about the affair. Carey was distraught, but no fool: he removed Robin from his life insurance policy. During one of their trysts, Philip hired a helicopter to track them down because he wanted hard evidence of their affair. Carey and Robin then separated; he went to stay with his parents. Then, on August 25, 2008, the crime occurred. Philip and Carey were fatally shot with a shotgun; Linda Heidt miraculously survived, turning her head at the moment of the shooting. With nothing taken from inside the house - money and jewelry untouched - investigators concluded the motive was murder. Detectives gave Robin the news: she says she immediately confronted Craig, who said he didn't do it. Police immediately zeroed in on Craig. Linda Heidt did not see the shooter, but is adamant that Craig didn't do it -- circumstantial evidence said otherwise. Four months after the murders, Craig moved in with Robin and her children was essentially living Carey's life. Nine months later Craig asked Robin to marry him. In May 2009, Craig Heidt was arrested for the murders. His mother and brother stood by him during the trial; Robin did not. He was found guilty. Family members insist he didn't get a fair trial. Epilogue: In November 2011, Robin married Bradley Cave, who had spent a year in mandatory drug rehabilitation. In December 2011, a lawyer for the Heidt children asked a court to remove them from Robin's care and let them live with Linda. The judge gave Linda immediate custody, ordered monies from the Heidt trust to be paid to Linda for care of the children. Robin was also to turn over the children's Social Security payments. She did not and a warrant was issued. She spent two days in jail right before Christmas. On screen text graphic: Craig Heidt is appealing his conviction. Interviewed: family members Robin Heidt, Linda Heidt, Chris Heidt; Michael Muldrew, prosecutor; Dr. James Downs, medical examiner; Jimmie McDuffie, sheriff, Effingham County, Georgia; Eugene Howard, agent in charge, Georgia Bureau of Investigations; Ed Myrick, sheriff's firearms instructor; James Dingledein, police officer; Dow Bonds, Craig Heidt's attorney. 48 HOURS MYSTERY (continued)

01/21/12

48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Shelley's Last Breath" (9:00-10:00p) - an investigation into the 1999 scuba diving death of Shelley Tyre while on vacation on the Caribbean isle of Tortola. Police questioned her husband and dive partner David Swain about every detail of the dive; autopsy results were inconclusive. Shelley, a school principal who, in the early 1990s, had met and married David Swain, a divorced father of two, who ran a dive shop, was an adventurous woman who couldn't care less about money. Her parents insisted on a pre-nuptial agreement and David Swain agreed he would receive no money if they divorced. With her death, he collected more than $600,000 from her estate. What her parents could not understand was Swain's lack of emotion regarding Shelley's death. He explained that he didn't know had happened to Shelley during the dive. Although divers are supposed to swim in pairs, she was diving alone - he had gone elsewhere in the water. One year after her death, her parents hired an attorney and sent him and his team of experts to Tortola to investigate. After several months, they uncovered evidence which they believed proved David Swain was lying. 48 HOURS hired an underwater forensic expert to examine the evidence; he also concluded that it was much more than a diving accident. Her parents believed that Shelley's decision to change jobs and take a substantial pay cut may have been the motive for murder. In 2006, they sued David Swain in civil court for wrongful death and won. Armed with this, the Tyres persuaded the authorities in Tortola to re-open the case: island prosecutors charged Swain with the murder of his wife. Ten years after Shelley's death and after two years in a Tortola prison, the trial began. Certain information about David Swain became public during the trial - his father had been convicted of sexual abuse and sent to prison. His mother was bludgeoned to death by his brother, Richard. This information, along with testimony from his children and ex-wife was used to explain his behavior. In the end, David Swain was found guilty of murder and sentenced to life in prison. Update for this 01/21/12 rebroadcast: In September 2011, a three-judge panel overturned David Swain's guilty verdict and he was released from prison. Updated onscreen graphics: In December, David Swain was arrested and charged with drunk driving. If convicted, he could face up to a year in prison. Swain has never paid the Tyre family the 3.5 million in damages from the 2006 wrongful death judgement. With interest, it's now more than 8 million. Interviewed: David Swain; Jen Bloom and Jeremy Swain, David's children; Richard and Lisa Tyre, Shelley's parents; Don Badger, Shelley's co-worker; John Langella, David's friend and fellow scuba instructor; Sandy Wheeler, David's ex-wife; Jeff Morgan, San Bernardino, California Sheriff's Department; Keith Royle, dive boat captain; Bill Oliver, scuba gear designer; Neil Tassel and Tim Bradl, David's defense attorneys; Jim Erickson, former Minneapolis assistant district attorney; Hayden St. Clair Douglas, local counsel working with David's defense team. 48 HOURS MYSTERY (continued)

- 01/21/12 48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Showdown in the Bedroom" (10:00-11:00p) - a followup to "Shootout at the Hills" (OAD: 11/27/10), a report on the November 14, 2006 shooting of Danny Hill, by his wife, Charlene. Charlene claimed that their seemingly happy life together was a facade and that she shot him in self-defense. Charlene's years of suffering physical abuse from Danny was well documented by police reports and hospital visits. Their children even admitted that their father, Danny, was abusive, but that he had mellowed after he and their mother had survived a near-fatal motorcycle accident in August 2003 and that their mother had often instigated the arguments, leaving Danny with no choice but to react the way he did. At the trial, prosecutors questioned Charlene's claim of self-defense and claimed that the multi-million dollar estate was the motive. The jury deliberated for two days, before the judge declared a mistrial. Prosecutors decided to try her for a second time. In January 2011, the second trial began. Prosecutors decided the focus would be on science and not sentiment. They presented a case based on forensics and had crime scene investigators and medical examiners testify. Charlene Hill again testified about why she believed her life was in jeopardy. The jurors even took a field trip to Charlene and Danny's bedroom. When deliberations began, it seemed to be another mistrial. The judge encouraged attorneys to broker a plea deal. They came to an agreement: no prison time but Charlene must admit that she murdered her husband. Charlene initially resisted, but agreed to the deal. When she was about to sign the agreement, the jury announced they had reached a verdict. Without reading the verdict, the judge made a decision -- he let both sides seal the deal. After the plea, it was found out that the verdict was guilty, and Charlene would have been sentenced to jail. The jurors were satisfied -- they believed that Charlene was guilty, but had suffered enough. - 01/28/12 48 HOURS MYSTERY: "A Fatal Attraction" - Joanne Witt, a 47-year old engineer in El Dorado Hills, California was stabbed to death while she was sleeping on Thursday, June 11, 2009. One month prior to her death Joanne found her 14-year old daughter Tylar Witt in a compromising situation with 19-year old Stephen Colver. Joanne was a single mother and along the way had lost control of Tylar, but exposing her daughter's relationship with Stephen would prove to be their last fight. Joanne tried to stop the relationship once she was aware of it, but the couple denied any wrongdoing. When Joanne discovered Tylar's diary detailing the sexual encounters between the couple, she went straight to authorities, and an investigation was opened. Prosecutor Lissette Suder, in conjunction with Stephen's defense attorney Dain Weiner and Tylar's lawyer Mark Ralphs, outlined the unfolding sequence of events. Tylar and Stephen were afraid of statutory rape charges and after Joanne was dead they decided to rent a hotel room for the night in San Francisco. Stephen and Tylar wrote suicide notes, and ate rat poison hoping to die together. When the rat poison didn't work they were on the run until local police officers turned them in. Tylar ended up turning on Stephen once prosecutors got involved and at his trial, she testified against him. In the end Stephen was sentenced to life in prison without parole, and Tylar pleaded guilty to 2nd degree murder, receiving 15 years to life. 48 HOURS MYSTERY

- 03/03/12 48 HOURS MYSTERY - "The Country Club Murders" - a report on professional poker player Ernie Scherer III, the chief suspect in the 2008 murders of his parents, Charlene and Ernest, in their Castledown Country Club home in Picasanton, California. Ernie's motive was financial gain: he was to receive over $2 million if his parents died. He was facing financial pressure from his gambling debts and the loan he was paying back to his parents for the condo he lived in with his wife and young son. During the course of the investigation, police discovered that Ernie was involved with various other women, and always spent lavishly. At the scene, police discovered an odd clue: bloody footprints intentionally left as part of a staged crime scene. Police questioned Ernie, but with no forensic evidence to tie him to the crime, they were unable to arrest him. Later, when new evidence came to light, Ernie had vanished. After a cross country spree of nearly one year, police, with the help of Ernie's wife, were able to apprehend and arrest him for the murder of his parents. His trial in January 2011, ended in a guilty verdict. On screen text graphic: Ernie Scherer is serving two consecutive life sentences. 48 HOURS MYSTERY - "The Boy Next Door" - an updated report on the hunt for a serial killer suspected of murdering three young women from Los Angeles, California to Chicago, Illinois. In 2001, Los Angeles resident Ashley Elerin was planning to attend a Grammy party with actor Ashton Kutcher. When Kutcher arrived at her home, she never answered the door; it turned out that she had been brutally stabbed to death the night before. Her friends directed the police to Michael Gargiulo, a former boxer and aspiring actor who was working as a repairman -- friends said that he was oddly fixated with her. In the course of the police investigation, the police learned Gargiulo was being investigated for another crime -- the unsolved murder of Tricia Paccaccio, who had lived in Gargiulo's former Glenview, Illinois neighborhood. Due to lack of evidence, he had never been charged, and he left for California. Five years after the Elerin murder, another woman, Maria Bruno, was found dead just steps away from the apartment where Gargiulo lived. In that case, detectives found a blue cotton boot, with a drop of Maria's blood on the bottom. In 2008, a Santa Monica woman was attacked, but survived. Blood evidence and DNA (which had been filed in the National Database by Cook County Illinois authorities) led investigators to Michael Gargiulo, who was living just across the alley from where the woman was attacked. Police arrested Gargiulo and the investigation led to a connection to all of the cases involving the several young women. Gargiulo insists he is innocent. UPDATE: Since the original broadcast, two witnesses to statements made by Gargiulo that he killed a woman in Chicago have contacted 48 HOURS. They were put in touch with the proper authorities. Shortly thereafter, a Cook County Grand Jury indicted Michael Gargiulo for Tricia Paccaccio's murder. On Screen Text Graphic: Michael Gargiulo is scheduled to stand trial at the end of the year for the murders of Ashley Elerin and Maria Bruno. If convicted, he will face the death penalty. Interviewed: Rick, Diane and Doug Paccaccio, Tricia's father, mother and brother; Karen Jones, friend of Tricia's; Ray Salihovich, Illinois police officer; Justin Peterson, Chris Duran and Jennifer Disisto, friends of Ashley Elerin; Tom Small, Los Angeles Police Department homicide detective; Temple Brown, Los Angeles filmmaker; Scott Olsen, friend of Michael Gargiulo; Jack Reed and Mark Baldwin, Cook County sheriff's detectives; Mark Lillienfeld, homicide detective with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department; Richard Lewis, Santa Monica Police Sergeant; Jack Blakey, head of cold case prosecutions for the Cook County state's attorney. 48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Grave Injustice" - an updated report on the case of Anthony Graves, who spent eighteen years -- twelve of them on death row -- in a Texas prison for murders he did not commit. In 1992, the Davis family, four of them young children, were found bludgeoned, shot and stabbed to death, in the charred remains of the family home in Somerville, Texas. Texas Rangers quickly zeroed in on Robert Carter: father of the youngest victim, 4-year-old Jason, he was recently served with papers for child support and Rangers believed he wanted his boy dead. Carter eventually admitted that he was at the crime scene, but said that another man, Anthony Graves, committed the murders. There was little to connect Graves to Carter or to the Davis family, but justice was swift, and Anthony Graves was convicted of six counts of capital murder and sentenced to death. He always proclaimed his innocence. Carter was also convicted. In 2000, while in the death chamber, Robert Carter took sole responsibility for the murders. In fact, he had been saying much the same for years. Then in 2002, the case caught the eye of Professor Nicole Casarez and her journalism students. After a four-year investigation, the students concluded that Anthony Graves was an innocent man. Texas Monthly editor Pam Colloff, who herself spent months investigating the case, reached the same conclusion. The students turned their findings over to Graves' attorneys, helping to trigger a chain of legal maneuvers that, in 2010, freed him from prison. UPDATE: Anthony Graves should have been paid $1.4 million for wrongful incarceration upon his release. Due to a paperwork error, his release documents never used the words "actual innocence" so the State of Texas refused to pay. After nine months of public pressure, the legislature passed, and the governor quickly signed a special measure awarding him the money. Graves credited 48 HOURS for drawing attention to what he was owed. On Screen Text Graphic: Graves speaks all over the country raising money for legal assistance for people on death row. Includes interviews with Anthony Graves; Nicole Casarez, professor, University of St. Thomas, Houston; Pam Colloff, Texas Monthly editor; Charles Sebesta (District Attorney); Kelly Siegler (District Attorney); Meghan Bingham (student); Arthur Curry (Graves' brother); Katherine Scardino (attorney); Jimmy Phillips (attorney); Roy Rueter (Graves' friend); Otto Ilanek (investigator). 03/24/12 48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Arturo Gatti's Last Fight" - an updated rebroadcast on the mysterious 2009 death of world champion boxer Arturo Gatti. When Gatti was found dead in Brazil, police characterized the death as a homicide and arrested his wife, Amanda Gatti. She was never charged and three weeks later, released when authorities concluded that he had taken his own life. To this day, theories abound, with many who knew him not believing his death could be a suicide. Included in this report is the first television interview by Amanda Gatti about the night her husband died and about her life with the fighter. Brother Joe Gatti talks about his own theory into Arturo's death, and how he believes the death was indeed a suicide. The family, however, does not agree, and thinks Amanda Gatti was after money. They have hired private investigators Paul Ciolino and Joe Moura to investigate. The two believe Brazilian authorities botched the case and that Gatti was murdered and Amanda Gatti killed him. However, their case is not airtight. Amanda Gatti today, is still involved in a court case involving Gatti's assets. UPDATE: In November 2011, the case took a dramatic turn with Amanda getting support from an unexpected source: the coroner in Quebec, Dr. Jean Brochu, who had conducted a second autopsy in 2009, finally issued his report. His conclusion: no evidence of foul play. He also criticized the American private detectives. In December 2011, the estate court ruled that Arturo Gatti's last will was valid and that Amanda gets everything. On Screen Text Graphic: 'The mother of Gatti's daughter filed a wrongful death suit against Amanda Gatti. But the judge dismissed the suit. And in Brazil, the Police Chief now says he can find no one who can convince him that Amanda Gatti killed her husband.
